Head Coach Steve Cornish

Steve Cornish

13th Year at UNC Asheville
University of Manchester, 1982

Steve Cornish, twice named Big South Conference Coach of the Year, begins his 13th year as head coach of the UNC Asheville men's soccer program. Cornish became the UNCA coach in the summer of 1992, succeeding Steve Adlard, who moved to be the head coach at Marquette University. In addition to coaching soccer, Steve is the athletic department's academic advisor and also teaches in UNCA's health and fitness department.

The 2003 season was another good year for the Bulldog program. Cornish guided the club to an 8-9-1 record and a fourth-place finish in the Big South Conference. A big highlight of the year came when the Bulldogs upset nationally ranked Coastal Carolina, 2-1 midway through the season. It was the last time the Chanticleers would lose until the third round of the NCAA Tournament.

The 2001 season was one of the best years that the Bulldog soccer program has ever had thanks to Cornish's leadership. Picked to finish in last place in the rugged Big South Conference, Cornish's club stunned many by finishing in a tie for first place and earning the conference's regular-season championship and top seed in the tournament. The Bulldogs finished with a 9-8 overall record and school-record 5-2 mark in league play. UNCA also picked up a big non-conference victory when it shocked Evansville, 2-1 early in the season. For his efforts, Cornish was named Big South Conference Coach of the Year for the second time during his career. The Bulldogs also had the league's Rookie of the Year and Scholar Athlete of the Year. Later in the year, senior Mike Roach was named as a first team Academic All-American, the first ever in school history.

In 2000, Cornish's charges finished with an 8-11-0 record against a very difficult schedule. The Bulldogs were just a goal away from finishing in second place in the Big South Conference and finished in fifth spot with a 3-4 league mark.

In 1999, the Bulldogs finished with a deceiving 5-11-3 overall record. UNCA was very competitive in 1999 and proved that in the Big South Conference tournament. The Bulldogs were seeded seventh in the tournament but playing second-seed Coastal Carolina on its home field, UNCA sent the game into penalty kicks and shocked the Chants 4-2 on PK's and advanced to the tournament's semifinals for the first time in eight years. The next day saw the Dogs lose in overtime to the eventual champion Radford, 1-0.

The 1996 season was a special one for Cornish and his program. Picked to finish in seventh-place in preseason polls, the Bulldogs earned their first winning season in 12 years by finishing with an 8-7-3 record. In addition, UNCA finished in third place with a 2-2-3 record, the program's highest finish in six years. Of the Bulldogs seven losses, five were to teams in the NCAA tournament the previous year and three were to teams in the Top 10 at the time. UNCA tied a school-record with a five-game winning streak early in the season. The Bulldogs earned an impressive win over conference rival Radford, the first win over the Highlanders since 1990, and compiled a 4-0 mark against teams from the Southern Conference.

In 1995, Cornish's club enjoyed a breakthrough season. The Bulldogs finished with a 9-11 overall record and 3-4 mark in the Big South Conference. The nine wins the most the program had earned in five seasons and UNCA earned a berth in the Big South Conference tournament for the first time in four seasons. The Bulldogs tied a school record early in the year with a five-game winning streak, including a 2-1 win over eventual Big South Conference champion and NCAA participant Coastal Carolina. UNCA also earned wins over established programs such as Appalachian State, Stetson and Virginia Commonwealth. At the conclusion of the year, Cornish was honored by his peers in the Big South when he was named Big South Conference Coach of the Year.

A native of England, Cornish is a 1982 graduate of North Cheshire College, University of Manchester in Cheshire, England, with a bachelor's degree in physical education and Mathematics. He helped lead the team to two British College championships, and he was an all-star forward, representing England Colleges in the North-South all-star game in 1981 and 1982 and North squad vs. Scotland in 1982. Cornish still holds a school record for most goals in a game with six that he scored as a senior. He has worked several camps in England with soccer legend Sir Bobby Charlton.

Steve's wife, Michele, will begin her 10th year as women's soccer coach at UNCA. The Cornish's have a son, Cameron, 10 and a daughter, Cheyney 5.

Ben Betsalel

Assistant Coach

Ben Betsalel begins his first year as an assistant coach for the UNC Asheville soccer program. The Asheville native was a four year letterman for the Bulldogs program from 2000-03. He was last year's starting goalkeeper for Asheville and did a great job. Betsalel posted five shutouts for the Bulldogs and started in 18 matches.

"We're very pleased that Ben will be with us this season," commented Cornish. "He will assist our goalkeepers and do a great job for us."

Mission Statement

UNC Asheville is a selective, public liberal arts institution. UNCA's Intercollegiate Athletic Program reflects the attitudes and values underlying the University's overall mission: academic excellence, diversity, equity, integrity, service, and accomplishment. The UNCA athletics program contributes to this liberal arts culture in two ways. First, athletics programs foster a sense of community and pride by fielding NCAA Division I teams and developing talented student-athletes who successfully represent UNCA in competition and reflect the University's commitment to overall excellence. Accordingly, the athletics program encourages an atmosphere of respect for self and others through the development of ethical conduct, sportsmanship, leadership, and citizenship and provides equitable opportunities for all students and staff, including women, minorities and individuals of all sexual identities. Second, the program provides an additional campus experience for capable students to grow and develop academically, personally, socially, and athletically. This experience promotes institutional commitment and pride on the part of students, faculty, staff, and alumni.

2004 UNC Asheville Men's Soccer Preview

The UNC Asheville men's soccer team is looking to put the pieces together in 2004 and make a run at a Big South Conference championship.

The Bulldogs were a little up-and-down in 2003 and finished with an 8-9-2 overall record. The ups included a stunning 2-1 upset of Big South champion Coastal Carolina at Greenwood Field midway through the season. There was a 2-1 upset of Northeast Conference champ Long Island University and a clutch 1-0 win at Radford.

The downs includes four losses at home, three by shutouts, a four-game winless streak where the Bulldogs didn't score and a disappointing 5-1 loss to Winthrop in the quarter-finals of the Big South Conference tournament to end the season.

"We had a lot of injuries last season and never really had the lineup I wanted to go with when the season started," explained UNC Asheville coach Steve Cornish. "However, we simply have to be more consistent. We have to learn to win more matches and be more confident when we go on the field."

Cornish is hoping his team can be more consistent in 2004 but some pieces to have to fall into place.

"There are parts of our game that I am quite optimistic about this year," stated Cornish. "I believe up front we can be a dangerous club with our strikers and our midfielders.

"However, we're going to be very young and inexperienced in the back and in goal," added Cornish. "We're simply going to have grow up in a hurry this year in the back to compete for a Big South Conference title."

The following is a position-by-position analysis of the 2004 UNC Asheville Bulldogs.

Goalkeepers

A year ago, the goalkeeping spot was one of the Bulldogs biggest questions of the year. Senior Ben Betsalel answered that question with an excellent season as he posted five shutouts and a goals-against-average of 1.37.

Asheville goes into this season with the goalkeeping spot up for grabs. Fifth-year senior Ben Saylor, along with freshmen Phillip Horner, Marc Gellman and Michael Pereira will all compete for playing time in the 2004 season.

"We've been quite good over the years with our goalkeepers," commented Cornish. "Last year, we were in a similar situation but Ben Betsalel rose to the occasion and had a great season. I'm hopeful that someone will step up this year like Ben did last season.

"Ben Saylor is a fifth-year senior who has been around our program and knows what to do," added Cornish.

Greg Yelverton has been an all-conference performer for two straight years.

"Michael has a great deal of potential and will work hard to get on the field," Cornish also said. "Phillip and Marc are also working hard in the preseason to get an opportunity to play."

Defense

The Bulldogs have to replace four starters in the back this season. However, Asheville does have some experience coming back in 2004.

Start with senior Joe Srebalus who was a fixture in the back last year as he started and played in 15 games. Senior Matt Scovil battled some injuries but when healthy proved to be a valuable defender. He played in just 13 matches in 2003 but started in 10 of them. Sophomore Grant Gilmore could be used in the back or in the middle this year.

2004 UNC Asheville Men's Soccer Preview

"We were very experienced in the back last year with players like Jonathan Long, Brad Patterson, Brett Breitschwerdt and Joseph Nixon and we'll miss that experience this season," explained Cornish.

"However, the players we have back played well for us last year and should be able to lead us this season," added Cornish. "Joe Srebalus will serve as captain this year. He is a player with experience and does a steady job on the field.

"If we can keep Matt Scovil healthy, he'll be a big asset because he's also good at going forward.

"Grant Gilmore is a lot like Matt Scovil," Cornish also said. "We would like Grant to stay away from injuries and if he can, he'll be a big help."

Asheville is bringing some talented newcomers to play in the back. Freshman John Hillman from Raleigh and Chris Burn from Bishop Auckland, England will compete for time on the field in 2004.

"We're pleased that John Hillman will be joining our program," commented Cornish. "He has talent that we look forward to seeing this season.

"Chris Burn is an experienced freshman who has played for the England Schoolboy National team," Cornish said. "He should provide immediate help in the back."

Midfield

The Bulldogs should be strong in this area this season as they'll be led by senior all-conference performer Greg Yelverton. He was Asheville's third leading scorer a year ago with two goals and eight points. Cornish expects Yelverton to have a great 2004 season.

"Greg should be ready to have a fine senior year," stated Cornish. "Last year, he played for Ireland in the World University Games and missed our first few matches of the season. I think he was a little sluggish early in the year because he came straight from the World University Games to our season. It took him a few matches to get going but he still had a fine season.

"Greg is one of the best midfielders in the Big South, and he'll be ready to lead our midfield attack," Cornish also said.

Cornish is looking for a solid year from sophomore Adam Schwartz. Schwartz had to fight through some injuries as a freshman but did score two goals and both of them were game-winners.

"Adam learned a lot as a freshman, and we're quite pleased at his progress," pointed out Cornish. "He'll be a key player this season."

Barrett Locke led the Bulldogs in scoring in 2003.

Senior John Chapuis played both in the midfield and the back last season and could be used at both spots again this year. He scored two goals and will be counted on in 2004.

"We really like John's versatility," said Cornish. "He's a player who will be valuable in both areas."

Sophomore Cameron Allison came off the bench for the Bulldogs last season in 18 matches. He'll battle for a starting spot this season.

"Cameron is another sophomore who earned some valuable experience in 2003," commented Cornish. "We expect him to compete for playing time this year."

The Bulldogs will have two freshmen and a sophomore vying for playing time. They are Nick Baud, Nathan Neal and A.J. Klerekoper.

"Nick played nearby at T.C. Roberson and comes from a great program that's used to winning," said Cornish. "We were very impressed with Nathan Neal's ability and look forward to seeing him on the field this season.

"A.J. is a transfer from the U.S. Military Academy. We see a lot of potential for him at UNC Asheville," added Cornish.

2004 UNC Asheville Men's Soccer Preview

Forward

Up front, Asheville has the potential to be very good as the Bulldogs will be led by juniors' Barrett Locke and Jordan Holthouser. Locke was the second leading scorer for Asheville last season with four goals and nine points. His two goals against Coastal Carolina led the Dogs to a 2-1 upset win over the nationally-ranked Chanticleers. Holthouser was right behind Locke with two goals, four assists for eight points. Cornish hopes to get more from the duo this season.

"Barrett and Jordan had fine seasons last year but due to our injuries were unable to play together much," explained Cornish. "My hope is that we will be able to play them together like we did in much of their freshmen year. They really compliment each other quite well and if we can keep them up front, I would expect both of them to have great seasons."

Cornish will be also looking to use talented freshman Daniel Bandoly up front, as well. Bandoly comes to Asheville from Forestview HS in Gastonia.

"Daniel has a lot of talent that we're looking to use this season," said Cornish. "He has had a great high school and club career."

Another freshman, David Verga, will battle for playing time as a forward.

"David is a hard worker," stated Cornish. "He plays very well with his back to goal and provides a different threat up front."

Cornish believes the Bulldogs have some other attacking options.

"We have a versatile team and have several players that can play up front," stated Cornish. "We're going to see how preseason practice goes and how the shape of our team develops."

Schedule

UNC Asheville has always played a challenging schedule and that will be the case once again in 2004.

"Our schedule is very challenging once again," Cornish pointed out. "Our non-conference schedule is quite difficult with teams such as Duke, North Carolina and Kentucky."

"When we get to Big South Conference matches, there will be no rest there either," added Cornish. "Our league is very underrated and there are no easy matches."

The Bulldogs play an exhibition match against Tusculum College on Aug. 21 before opening the season on the road at Gardner-Webb on Sept. 1. Asheville plays its home opener against Elon University on Sept. 4 before heading back on the road to play at Kentucky (Sept. 10) and Belmont University (Sept. 12).

The Bulldogs open Big South Conference play at home against Radford Sept. 15th and entertains former league member Campbell (Sept. 17). It will be the Camels first visit to Greenwood Field since 1992.

Asheville is back on the road for two matches when it travels to East Carolina (Sept. 19) and High Point (Sept. 22). The Bulldogs play at home on Sept. 26 when they host UNC Wilmington before heading to Coastal Carolina two days later (Sept. 28).

Asheville's first match in October will be a tough one as the Dogs face national power North Carolina in Chapel Hill on Oct. 6. Asheville hosts league foe VMI on Oct. 9 before playing a tough two-game road trip. The Bulldogs play at conference runner-up Birmingham-Southern (Oct. 16) and ACC power Duke (Oct. 20).

"Playing Birmingham-Southern and Duke back-to-back on the road will be quite challenging," declared Cornish.

The Bulldogs come back home to take on league foe Winthrop on Oct. 26th before going back on the road for two matches in the state of Virginia. Asheville will play at league foe Liberty (Oct. 29) and Division I newcomer Longwood two days later (Oct. 31).

The Bulldogs finish the regular season with non-conference home matches against Wofford (Nov. 3) and Appalachian State (Nov. 6). The Big South Conference Tournament is slated for Nov. 11-14th at Birmingham-Southern.

Jordan Holthouser will be one of the Asheville's top forwards this season.

Chancellor

James Mullen

James H. Mullen, Jr., was elected Chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Asheville on April 9, 1999 by the University of North Carolina Board of Governors and took office August 1. UNC Asheville is the designated liberal arts campus of the University of North Carolina system.

Previously, Dr. Mullen served as senior vice president and director of Project 2002 at Trinity College, a prestigious liberal arts college in Hartford, Connecticut. There, he was responsible for Trinity's comprehensive master plan for the future and shepherding a $300-million public/private revitalization now transforming the neighborhood surrounding the college.

Dr. Mullen joined Trinity College in 1995 as vice president for strategic planning and community relations, overseeing long-range planning, legislative and community relations, and Trinity's neighborhood revitalization initiative. In 1996 he was promoted to vice president for student services, where he was responsible for shaping and administering all policies and programs affecting student life at Trinity.

Dr. Mullen was a sought-after lecturer in Trinity College's Public Policy Department, where his work focused on the American presidency. He holds an appointment as Professor in the UNC Asheville department of Political Science.

A native of Holyoke, Massachusetts, he majored in history at the College of the Holy Cross in Massachusetts, graduating magna cum laude in 1980. He earned a master's degree in public policy from Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government in 1984, and a doctorate in higher education from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, in 1994.

An avid proponent of community service, Dr. Mullen serves on various boards including the United Way of Asheville and Buncombe County; the Asheville Symphony; the Asheville Area Chamber of Commerce; WCQS Public Radio; Asheville-Buncombe VISION, Inc.; the North Carolina Arboretum; the Western North Carolina Community Development Association; and the City of Asheville Sustainable Economic Development Task Force. He is also a member of the Leadership and Institutional Effectiveness Committee of the American Council on Education.

He and his wife, Mari, have two young children: Mary Frances and James Charles.

Athletics Director

Janet Cone

Janet Cone joined UNC Asheville as Athletics Director in April 2004. Previously, she served as Associate Athletics Director at Samford University in Birmingham, Ala. Samford, which has 4,500 students, competes at the NCAA Division I level and offers 17 men's and women's sports.

Cone joined Samford in 1996, recruiting and coaching Samford's first women's basketball team. She coached the Samford Bulldogs for five years, and then moved up the ranks to become the Assistant Athletics Director/Senior Women's Administrator and then Associate Athletics Director.

Cone is no stranger to Western North Carolina. Earlier in her career, she coached women's basketball at Western Carolina University and Mars Hill College.

Cone graduated magna cum laude from Furman University in 1978, earning a degree in health and physical education, and lettering in basketball and field hockey.

She earned a master's degree in physical education from the University of South Carolina in 1986.

She is a member of the Women's Sports Foundation, National Association of Collegiate Athletic Administrators, National Association of Collegiate Marketing Administrators and the Executive Women's Golf Association.
